Hitherto our means of reaching California boned that before long others will be opened, and the last Presidential election, he would have found the competition which will then ensue must make it the interest of each company to carry freight as not merely evidence but full proof of this "wide-spread and desperate conspiracy against the contincheaply and as expeditionaly as possible. The be one of the greatest commercial events the world ors, and Representatives, and the daily distribe doubling either Cape Horn or Good Hope, the time saved in the longth of the voyage, and also the di-minishing of the expenses of it, must reduce the racy among the leading Southern Democrats t seins the government and break up the l'nion b price of treight, or, it this be not effected, the value armed force in the event of Fremont's election. Every man who did not aid in the movement was denounced in advance as a "submissionist and traithan it can now by. Increased commercial facilities heir deliberate purpose was not more manifest from cial traffic, and these are still vast regions to b the rottage public afterance and reiteration than from the diaboli aids to which they proclaimed developed by offering them inducements not as ye

It is manifestly in the power of the Almini, tra civel war with the North, but that fur mighty agencies, and it is its duty to exert its power worse "domestic neighborhood civil war," which but it has not done .e, and probably will not do i inson-loving citizens of Virginia. To protect Virshares fully in the vascillation and weakness the ginia in this camplex wasfare, he avowed his inanticu to aim her dace Mr. Clingman, now a democratic Senator, said they (the conspirators) neant to put down the opposition of the Union men ful interests of the roun'ty, great or small, has not of North Carolina by the "sweft attention of voge lance committee," that is, by organized assessins his party. The nation is all its organs at I fibre cand murderer. The public wowal by such means such a purpose to be accomplished by such means sufficiently provay how "wide-suresd and desperufficiently provas how "wide-spread and desperata was then the conspiracy. Usless thry knew it was wide spread they never would have formed the

This, too, without the elightest we represent the fiery and rampant houtlity of il or retraxit of their purpose or apology Sonthern Deniscratio lenders to squatter-box for their proposed means. What then must be still the condition of the extreme Southern wing of the Democratic rarts. Many Southern wing of the Western Property Point of clear grant that it has served to purge the foul sentiment from most of their coulding todowers, as is fairly that argument is that men as ragacious a to be pro umed, ut, based as it was with the lead er on an ingrained hate of the l'nion, there can be party folly without some ulterior motive. And the party folly without some ulterior motive. And the party folly without some ulterior motive we assign is that of distribution of the Democratic party. th se same leaders are the very men who have now control of the Democratic party

What was the pretex for this formidable and dabecause they think or fancy they can somehow in its dissensions to the account of a project so much daster to their hearts than their party is as tresso testable conspirac,? It was that the North proposed, through the election of Framont, to reinstata the is falser than Democracy. The abbotrence of its can bought representatives. That comestracism the betrayal of its supposed interests by some of its can bought representatives. That compromise had been established by an emphatic ma-rationale of our opinion.

Sutely our neighbor is hardly so obtuse as not jority of Southern Senators and Representatives. It had been the guare and guaranty of national see or to uccandid as not to own that men may ur even sound decrines with excessive heat and in the worst of ends. What, indeed, is too secred of peace on the clave queetion for more than thirty gratuitous conceasion on the part of the South, it was no longer so. The North had paid in 1845, by the admission of Texas, a full, ample, sectional equivalent for the remediment and solemn railfection which the compression that received, not only from the he not sate party but also from the almost massimon was of the Southern Sonators and Raptressional solutions. This, the telegrature of the openable pretext of these men of all almost the openable pretext of these men of all almost aggression agastrat the tights of the South. But this was not all. The large majority of homocrats in the Sonate off cetally precluded the possibility of the moment is provided and the sonator range of the south of the constitutional rights of a section become in like manner the most of unfullowed the possibility of the Republican party views during the whole of Fremont's term, even if he had been clusted, for hy no rational possibility could the Republicans have obtained a too true for the profacing hands of ambition? Louis possibility could the Reputitions have obtained a majority in the Senate during his term. Fear of Northern aggression was not, therefore, the true cause of the foul conspiracy. What then was the cause of the foul conspiracy. What then was the cause of the foul conspiracy. What then was the bittet have which the conspirators felt towards the Union, and their strong desire for its discolution as a thing desirable for themselves personally or for their sections. They wanted to avail themselves of the high state of excitament and sectional exacerbation then prevailing through the South, to precipitate tion then prevailing through the South, to precipitate the South into a disunion movement, which they feared the great Lody of even their own deluded followers never would concent to in a period of popular calm. The accidental candidacy of Mr. Fill. more, and that alone, naved the nation from government. For the bonot of Louisville and is all the blood and calamity which would have ansued good name we deeply regret the unfairness of or from the attempt to carry out the traitorous, heart. contemporary, for, a bile we feel that ite spices to less, bl odthirsty project of those comparators. Yet injure nearbroad, whete its misrepresentations cannot be still dourish high in the confidence and affections of the Democracy. what is a ou have we to suppose that those had men have parted with any of their hate against the Union or desire for its dissolution? We have none, Everything tends rather to prove that both the hate and desire are still strong in their hosens. Why else do they persevere in their efforts to keep up the agitation of the elavery question and increase the sactional excitement? Why else give their countenance to the foulest corrupt ions of the government; why permit the squandering of its treasure in paying and buying the party services of corrupt followers? Why but to bring the government into followers? Why but to bring the government into disrepute and disgrace with the peaple and thereby wean them from their love for the l'mion? The auaded itself, in its insate zeal, to believe that no wealth and character of many of these men place good can come out of any Opposition source, and that them high above the suspicion of soiling their own the millennial era of politics will be the advent of the "good time" when a Common Council like that of cheats and peculators. Why then wink so hard at the peculations and plundering:?

If the President has given up all hope of the Democracy, ha does not, it would seem, quite despair of himself. "Within the last ten days," says the New York Times. "Within the last ten days," says the New York Times." With Rochamp her designed and the peculations of others who are disgusted at its the New York Times, "Mr. Buchanan has declared to a Senator of the I'nited States that, although he had no party now, be would within the next aix misrepresentations will not affect a single vote next mostlis have a very strong one, in support of his policy." It is fair to presume that this extraordimary display of confidence has some close connection

A very strong one, in support of his Saturday, though they may affect most disastrously the reputation of our city, and impede its business advancement. The rejected of politics is a noble with the recent proceedings of the President's political friends in Panneylvanis; though it would really triots and statesmen, but the charlatanry which puzzle a deeper observer than the President to justify the smallest bope on that account. Mr. Buchan as however is in a situation to be easily assured.

Besides, his agacity at best is none of the keenest, whatever may be thought of his cusning. "I learn," says Inspector, of the New York Courier the perceptive power to discover that difference between honorable controversy and the low thimble-rigging process of guling vaters by specious devices on the little joker order?

learn," says Inspector, of the New York Corrier and Enquirer, "from a source entitled to perfect credence, that Mr. Buchanan, on receiving intelligence of these proceedings, declared himself to his immediate personal and political friends a comdidate for renomanction by the Charleston Convention, and expressed confidence that, as he had been sustained by the united Democracy of Pennsylvania, his name would be a word of conciliation and a tower of strength in the councils of the assembled deputies of the nation. He believes that in the divided condition of the party between the doctrines of Douglas and the pretendans of Jefferson Davis and Toomba, he will be demanded as the candidate of moderation and compromise. This information comes to me in such a shape as to command my implicit belief. To this complazion I have always supposed Mr. Buchanan's modern disclaimers of future expectations from the party would come at last." And this is probably or possibly the quarter from which Mr. Buchanar expects his "party" to come "within the next six months." His "party," to come "within the next six months." His "party," to come "within the next six months." His "party," to stay the proceedings of the Louisville, and pledged "the utiled and undivided emport of the Opposition of this complete the proceedings of the convention.
